Introduction

In 2002, the United Nations General Assembly adopted Resolution 57/254 and declared the period 2005-2014 as the "United Nations Decade of Education for Sustainable Development" (DESD).

In its declaration, the United Nations General Assembly defined ESD (Education for Sustainable Development) as a "learning process (or approach to teaching) based on the ideals and principles that underlie sustainability and is concerned with all levels and types of learning to provide quality education and foster sustainable human development – learning to know, learning to be, learning to live together, learning to do and learning to transform oneself and society.”

At the end of the DESD in 2014, the UNESCO World Conference held in Japan announced the Global Action Programme (GAP) on ESD aimed at generating and scaling up ESD actions at all levels and in all areas of education, training and learning to accelerate progress towards sustainable development to the post-2015 agenda.

While ESD is implemented worldwide under the GAP, in support of further promoting ESD in Southeast Asia, the Southeast Asian Ministers of Education Organization (SEAMEO), and the Ministry of Education, Culture, Sports, Science and Technology, Japan (MEXT), in cooperation with the UNESCO Asia and Pacific Regional Bureau for Education, have shown their collective commitment to promoting best practices in ESD in schools across Southeast Asia by organising the SEAMEO-Japan Education for Sustainable Development (ESD) Award. The award scheme has been held annually since 2012.

In 2015, the United Nations General Assembly adopted 70/1 Resolution which determined the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs). Two years after the resolution, the United Nations General Assembly reaffirmed that ESD was an integral element of SDGs on quality education and a key enabler of all the other Goals (SDGs) in its Resolution 72/222. Against that background, significance of ESD Award will be recast in light of its contribution to achieving the SDGs.

The objectives of the SEAMEO-Japan ESD Award are:

1. To raise awareness of ESD in schools and communities across Southeast Asia;
2. To promote ESD best practices in schools and communities across Southeast Asia;
3. To share and exchange knowledge and best practices on ESD in schools across Southeast Asia and Japan;
4. To encourage networking among schools and communities which implement ESD practices in Southeast Asian countries and Japan.
5. To support the Sustainable Development Goals (SDG) of United Nations.

*The Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) consist of 17 integrated and interdependent global goals with associated 169 targets, which aim to shift the world on to a path towards sustainable and resilient development.

<https://sustainabledevelopment.un.org/sdgs>

The first awards scheme in 2012 was conducted under the theme of: “Education for Disaster Risk Reduction”. This initial competition attracted entries from 69 schools in Indonesia, Lao PDR, Malaysia, Myanmar, Philippines, Thailand and Vietnam.

Theme for 2018: "Applying Local Wisdom for Environmental Conservation"

Southeast Asia is not only blessed with natural resources but also with abundant cultural diversity and pluralistic society across the region. Each community has social resources that are beneficial to development such as traditional knowledge, wisdom, and environmental ethics<sup>1</sup>.

Over the past several decades, the problem of environmental sustainability has stemmed from humans destroying natural resources. Natural destruction also includes soil erosion, wild fires, forest fires and so forth<sup>2</sup>. To live with harmony with the environment, local people used the local wisdom accumulated by their ancestors to manage natural resources. The utilization of local wisdom can be seen in terms of their daily activities such as work and festivals<sup>3</sup>.

Considering the important roles of local wisdom for harmonising the implementation of environmental conservation, the 2018 SEAMEO-Japan ESD Award selects the theme "Applying Local Wisdom for Environmental Conservation".

"Local Wisdom" refers to the accumulated experiences that are used in daily life and are transmitted from generation to generation.

The scope of "Local Wisdom" for this award includes the following areas<sup>4</sup>:

- Consciousness of human being and local ethnic values that can apply to protect environment
- Local knowledge such as local farming practices, and local knowledge for protecting environment and animals
- Special custom and social practices that help protect environment
- Local symbol of culture: myths, ritual, arts, and knowledge and practices concerning local nature and global environment that can be applied for environmental conservation.

The objectives of this year's award scheme are:

1. To raise awareness of local wisdom applied for environmental conservation and sustainable development in schools and communities in Southeast Asia and Japan.
2. To promote and share initiatives and good practices that support sustainable development through the integration of local wisdom into the teaching and learning practices and school programmes that protects local environment and develops local community.
3. To encourage schools to develop and improve current ESD activities and programmes.

Under the theme of "Applying Local Wisdom for Environmental Conservation," the school entry should cover the following criteria:

1. The entry should be relevant to the theme, and provide details of "local wisdom" that the school has applied for environmental conservation in the school and in the community.
2. The entry should demonstrate how the school's programme can promote the local wisdom for environmental conservation through community engagement that create mutual beneficial partnerships, deepen student learning experiences, support student growth, and sustain the society.
3. The entry should demonstrate the transformation of attitude, behavior, daily practices, and life style of students, parents and community after participating in the school's programme.
4. The entry should demonstrate clear information dissemination on how the school transfers the knowledge or shares the practices to other schools in the same community and other communities.
5. The school should clearly demonstrate the integration of local wisdom for environmental conservation in all schools aspects such as school management plan, curriculum, teaching and learning practices, co-curricular activities, partnership efforts, community participation, and so on.
